SPRINGTIME WITH SOLO

Lazing around in the sunshine, daffodil in hand, Solo looks like the cat who got the cream!

The longer evenings and sunnier skies are obviously agreeing with Solo. Just look at the contented expression on his face as he goes to and fro on the garden swing! Clasping a vibrant yellow daffodil in his furry paw, this cute cat seems to be in a dreamland – maybe he's thinking about his next meal, his next adventure, or perhaps he's just taking a well-earned rest after a long day. Whatever it is, we wish we could join in.

This sunny scene is brought to you exclusively by Anchor, and will make a lovely addition to any Solo collection. It's a wonderfully enjoyable design to stitch too – full of fun little details, such as the backstitch lines creating movement, and the little mouse scuttling up the rope. We can't help wondering where he's going, but Solo doesn't seem to have even noticed him. Oblivious to it all, this adorable cat is more than happy in his own little world!

THE WORLD OF Cross Stitching READER PANEL

Solo is an adorable character, and anyone who owns a cat can relate to his antics. I love the detail of the little mouse running up the rope and Solo's look of pure contentment. I can't wait to stitch this design.

Hayley Reeves-Vane

The realistic fur detail on Solo's coat is achieved using lots of little sketchy backstitch lines. Most of these are worked into the blocks of aida, so use a sharp needle and follow the chart carefully for the correct placement of these lines.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

A morning visit to the village post office sets the scene for this charming design, giving us a wistful glimpse of days gone by

Designed by Geoff Butterworth

STITCH

With its village post office set amongst pretty greenery, Geoff Butterworth's 'Pension Day' evokes memories of simpler times, when errands were run on foot or by bicycle, journeying across fields and down country lanes. Having been lovingly adapted into cross stitch by DMC, this design retains all the charm and warmth of the original watercolour painting, right down to the detailed brickwork and famous red sign above the door.

We're delighted to host this nostalgic piece, and know that it will strike a chord with many of you out there. Stitch it at your leisure, and let the design take you back in time, to the slower pace of quiet country life.

Stitch your way to sweet dreams with these traditional scenes, capturing three tired tots and their teddy bear friends at bedtime

Before you pack your stash away and turn in for an early night, we urge you to re-thread your needle and start stitching these designs instead.

With teddies in tow, Joan's little angels make an adorable trio as they rub-a-dub-dub in the tub, put on their nightclothes, and say their prayers. We love the coordinating colours and classic feel of these scenes, but have to admit that we've never before seen such well-behaved children at bedtime!

Little ones will love these designs for the characters and toys, while adults will fall for their old-fashioned charm. You could turn them into cute cushions for friends, or why not stitch the set for a child's or grandchild's bedroom? One look at these sleepy heads and they'll be in the land of nod in no time...

Beautiful big blooms make this afghan an indulgent stitch, so settle down with part one of this sumptuous project today...

As springtime approaches, and the sights and scents of the garden come alive once more, there's simply no better time to stitch nature's finest flowers. Lesley Teare has created an absolutely gorgeous collection of floral designs for this luxurious afghan – 12 in total – and this month we're bringing you the first three flowers to start you on your way.

Setting the tone for this vivid piece are the delicate petals of the narcissus, the bold beauty of the anemone, and the spring sunshine of the daffodil. These exquisite blooms look so fresh against the crisp white afghan fabric and, together with the remaining flowers still to come, make a truly stunning project for you to savour and enjoy over the coming months.

FLORAL AFGHAN - PART TWO

Continue this project next month with the second set of Lesley's fabulous flowers. Issue 148 hits the shops on 30 January 2009, or turn to page 32 to subscribe and have your copy delivered.

This figure displays a 3D surface plot on a 30x30 grid. The vertical axis represents the height of the surface, ranging from 0 to 30. The horizontal axes are labeled 30, 20, 10, 0, 10, 20, 30, indicating a periodic or wrapped coordinate system. The surface itself is rendered with a color gradient, transitioning from green (lower values) to yellow (higher values). Key features of the surface include a large, multi-peaked central structure, a smaller peak on the left side, and a series of peaks along the bottom edge. Several red lines and shaded regions are overlaid on the plot to highlight specific regions of the surface. A color bar on the right side of the plot provides a scale for the height of the surface, with labels 0, 10, 20, and 30. The plot is set against a grid background and includes a color bar on the right side.

TEN TOP TIPS FOR STITCHING AN AFGHAN

Don't feel daunted by a large afghan project - we're here to help with some top tips for easy stitching

by Poppy Benner

2 PREPARE YOUR FABRIC

Back each square of your afghan with a piece of Stitch 'n' Tear to stabilise the area. This will help to prevent the threads from slipping out of place, and stop the fabric becoming distorted. It will also provide a firm base for lacing onto a frame, and help to prevent any creasing if you use a hoop.

5 USE A NUMBER 5 NEEDLE

A sharp, number 5 embroidery needle is the best choice when stitching through the two layers of the afghan and the Stitch 'n' Tear. A blunt tapestry needle will be much harder to push through, and you may end up with a sore thumb.

3 ADD TACKING STITCHES

Tack two diagonal lines from corner to corner of each square to fasten the Stitch 'n' Tear in place, then tack a square around the outside. This tacking will help to keep the afghan stable until the cross stitch is worked. The tacking stitches can be removed gradually as you stitch your design.

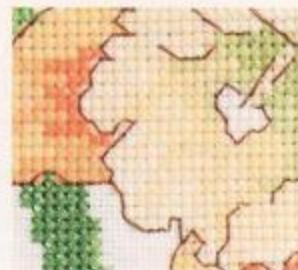

4 MOUNT YOUR AFGHAN

Before you start stitching, mount your afghan in a hoop or frame. A floor-standing frame is better than a hoop as a hoop is more likely to distort the loosely woven fibres. Keep any lacing or pinning to within the heavily woven border around each square.

6 USE THREE STRANDS

On an afghan, cross stitches should be worked in three strands for better coverage, with French knots and backstitch worked in two strands. The back of your work will be visible, so keep it neat by working your stitches in orderly rows or stitch by stitch. Never carry the threads across the back and always weave your loose ends into existing stitches of the same colour.

7 BE GENTLE

Afghan fabric is loosely woven to make it softer, and Stitch 'n' Tear will also tear easily if stitches are pulled too tight. For this reason, work with a slightly looser tension and go slowly and carefully. Use a 'stitch and stab' method, making each of your stitches in two separate movements.

8 KEEP THE FABRIC CLEAN

Sweat and dirt can easily be transferred onto your fabric by your hands, and by the air around you. To keep it clean, try tacking a towel or cloth to the edges of the square you are working on, so that your hands do not touch the fabric. It is also a good idea to store your afghan safely away to keep the dust off when you are not working on it.

9 FRINGE THE EDGES

Once all of your stitching has been done, a nice way to finish your afghan is by adding a fringe. Firstly, machine stitch the raw edges approximately 5cm from the outer edge, then pull the threads away up to this stitched line. For an even more decorative edge, try knotting the threads together, a few at a time.

10 WASH CAREFULLY

Afghan fabric can be washed at a temperature of 40°C in the washing machine. Make sure that all your threads are securely fastened off and test the threads for colour-fastness before you wash.

1 CHOOSE YOUR FABRIC

Afghan blankets are available in a wide range of styles and come in measured pieces to fit a cot or a bed. We've chosen a beautiful white afghan by Zweigart called Butterfly Garden, which fits in with the floral theme of our design. This fabric has 19 holes per inch, with 8½x8½in squares that fit our flowers perfectly. There are 12 squares in total, arranged in a 3x4 formation.

Designed by Jayne Netley Mayhew

The jungle is one of the most fascinating regions of the world, filled with leafy boughs, exotic flowers, and of course, astounding animals and wildlife. While we may only dream of seeing them in the flesh, we can still get a close-up view of many of these incredible creatures, thanks to Jayne Netley Mayhew's new book, Cross Stitch Jungle. This beautiful ocelot is just one of the designs from the book, and we're delighted to bring you the chance to stitch him.

Sitting in wait for his prey, eyes fixed on the prize, this magnificent animal can't fail to impress you, and he's the ideal stitch for all abilities too.

Jayne's portrait is worked in whole cross stitch only, yet it still has the rich and detailed finish that this cat deserves. After all, the ocelot's most defining feature is his wonderful spotted and striped coat, and here we get to see it, and stitch it, in all its glory.

I can't believe Jayne's ocelot is worked in whole stitches only – it's so realistic, you'd think that more complicated stitches were involved. This is a great design for every level of stitcher.

Siamese cat

SHADES OF THE ORIENT

Sat in the shade of an elegant floral parasol, the beauty and splendour of this Siamese cat is clear for all to see

Designed by Susan Bates

Beautiful, affectionate and intelligent – the Siamese cat is thought by many to be the perfect pet, and if this stunning portrait is anything to go by, we'd have to agree. The sleek, simple lines of Susan's cat are accentuated perfectly by the decorative parasol behind her. We love the way the citrusy orange and radiant flowers make this scene come alive, providing a gorgeous alternative backdrop to that old favourite, the English country garden.

Whether you're a fan of the Siamese breed, or simply a lover of cats, or indeed all animals, this scene is likely to grab your attention. So, don't miss your chance to bring one of the most desirable animals in the world to life in stitches.

EASE OF STITCHING
For all stitchers

Unfinished projects are every stitcher's weakness, so hang this marvellous motto on the wall to keep those bad habits in check!

With so many beautiful designs out there, we wouldn't blame you if you wanted to stitch every single one. Alas, eager stitchers like us often end up with a pile of unfinished projects gathering dust at the bottom of a drawer or workbox. Sad but true, these UFOs sometimes go years without being touched again, or even finished at all!

Here at WOXS, we can't bear the thought of these stitched pieces not reaching their full potential, so imagine our joy when we saw this fabulous motto. Hung up prominently in your home, we think it's the perfect way to curb your kit cravings and keep your stitching urges under control. Just remember to finish your last project before you start this one!

Turn the page for your chart, key and tips

Rhona Norrie's inspiration I will finish one project before starting another one

The idea for the stitcher's promise came from a conversation I overheard in a craft store. A woman was pleading with her husband to buy a cross stitch kit that she had her heart set on. Her husband kept reminding her of all the unfinished kits at home, and asking if she would ever finish the ones she already had. Of course, she replied that she would!

I knew that if she was anything like me, the minute she got home she would open the new kit with the excuse of 'just checking that everything's there'. Once a kit's opened, you just can't help but do a few stitches, then a few more...!

Finishing a project is a New Year's resolution that a lot of stitchers will probably make this year, and this design will help to remind them to keep their word. It's an ideal design for cross stitchers, but it will also make a great gift for those with different hobbies, who also find themselves with lots of unfinished projects.

Lisa, Art Assistant

Rhona's design made me laugh when I first saw it - I love how the final 'e' hasn't quite been finished! We've left the needle resting in the fabric for comic effect, but be careful if you have little children in the house. Make sure you hang this design where they can't reach it.

Experience the opulence of Japanese design with this striking Osaka heart, finished with an elegant filigree frame

This month's Heart of the World takes us east, to the city of Osaka in Japan – a country rich in artistic styles and imagery. Taking inspiration from this region, Brigitte Leconte has fashioned a beautiful design featuring an Oriental bird sitting serenely on the branch of a blossoming cherry tree. A delicate filigree pattern is then used to create the all-important heart shape in relief.

This splendid piece is worked in a simple palette of white, grey, black and brown, and stitched on a luxurious background of bright red evenweave. Such a bold combination of colours might not work anywhere else, but we think you'll agree that here, they make the spirit of Japan come alive in stitches.

The dramatic effect of black on red makes this design really eye-catching. I love to stitch on different-coloured fabrics - it just adds another dimension to your stitching and is a bit more of a challenge. I think this striking heart will add a bit of an exotic feel wherever you choose to hang it.

Hannah

TIP

Stitch a miniature version of this design by working over one strand of the evenweave rather than two

Dear Jen

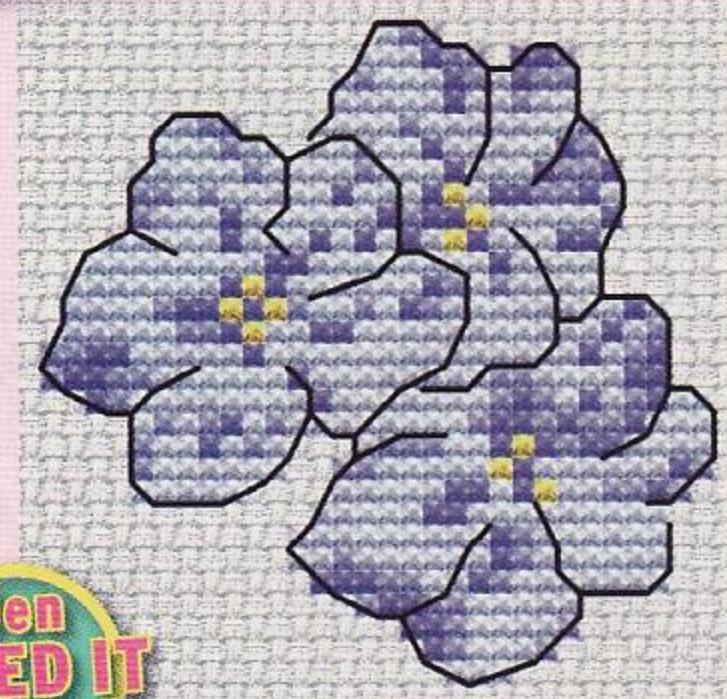

I need to stitch a sheepdog as part of a collage. If you could design one measuring around 3x3in, I would be really grateful!

Dear Jen

Could you please design me some simple violets? I'd like to send them to my sister in Canada.
